

INCULCATING A PREVENTIVE MAINTENANCE CULTURE

Preventive maintenance is an extremely important aspect of a nation's pride and productivity. As an elite group of highly educated, trained and experienced professionals, it is of paramount importance that we take a leading role to inculcate into the rest to have a preventive maintenance culture.

Lack of maintenance will have a substantial negative impact on the nation's economy, safety and societal wellbeing. Essential infrastructures such as built assets, plants and equipment will have to be replaced frequently and cannot be used economically beyond its designed life span. Frequent unanticipated breakdowns will require costly repairs, disruptions and inconvenience. Malaysia was once reputed to have 1st class infrastructures but sadly third world maintenance mentality.

The pandemic has provided an opportunity for the professionals to push as a new norm, policies and strategies to have maintenance thought of first in all our development activities. The savings arising out of this can be used for other essential services such as education, welfare and health.

Vertitech (M) Sdn Bhd would like to share our resilient business model of in the process of providing appraisal and rehabilitation services also encourages clients to develop preventive maintenance habits that ultimately contribute to developing a preventive maintenance culture.
